

Hello dear art lover

Could I ask you a small favour?

As a previous buyer of my art work I wanted to reach out to touch base again and say hello!

When I started selling my abstract landscapes last year during lockdown I was thrilled when you showed your support and purchased a piece of my art work. The style of my work was new, it was very different to anything I had made before and I was nervous about how it would be received. Your purchase meant so much to me. It helped me to build up my creative confidence and it led me to spending a lot of time through the following twelve months investing in my creative self, developing my work and setting up a new website.

I would love to add some customer testimonials to my website from people who have bought my work, and this is where the small favour comes in. I wanted to ask whether you would be happy to send me a few words about what it was that drew you to my work, to part with your hard-earned cash and to buy a piece of original art for your home. If you wanted to share a picture of my work in situ that would be amazing too.

Please feel free to drop me an email to info@suebulmer.co.uk if you would be happy to do this and let me know whether you would like me to add your name, initials or location. This would mean so much.

Please also feel free to pop into my website and have a look around. I have an online shop and also a blog section called Studio Notes where I share a bit about my creative life and what I'm currently up to in my studio at the top of the garden. I'd love it if you popped in for a browse and would love to hear what you think.

Ok, that's all for now. I hope you are keeping safe and well and life is good

Peace and Love

Sue
